

answered shortly before she passed away when her youngest child, John, made his decision to serve the Lord in the mission field.

On July 12, 1902, Grandfather Jacob Thiessen passed away and was buried in the pasture on his farm. Later his body was transferred to the South Inman Cemetery. He had reached the age of fifty-nine years, nine months and twenty-eight days.

Several years later, Grandmother moved to Inman and lived in a little house next to her daughter, Justina, Mrs. H. E. Toews. She passed away in her own home on December 31, 1914 and was buried in the South Inman Cemetery.
