

first cousin Johan Isaac (1808-1863), whose son Peter wrote the well known Isaac genealogy Stammbuch Melner Voreltern.<sup>93</sup> Helena and Peter Isaac died within three months of each other, he died of typhus and she had a stroke.

From his early youth Peter Isaac had always been a sincere and pious man. Peter Fast tells the story that the father of Peter Isaac was a strong smoker but did not want his sons to smoke and earnestly warned his children against the habit. It happened that Peter and his oldest brother Johan had been in the field plowing and Johan had been smoking, and Peter ploughed under his brother's tobacco pipe. Nor had Peter ever smoked. He was also a very temperate man. Peter Fast reports that the Peter Isaacs often visited with his parents and that he held them in highest esteem.

4 Son Franz Isaac (born 1850) was a school teacher, his marriage was not a happy one. He died a miserable death of cancer in Memrik. Son Jakob Isaac (born 1841) was elected as a minister but died before he could preach. Son-in-law Heinrich Martens died in Orenberg and daughter Helena Isaac (born 1835) was living as a widow with her children in Nikopol in 1907.
