Poem - 25 Years

Congratulations to you mom and dad,
For 25 years you've now been wed.
Let's take time to reminisce,
Of some of the things that led to this.
Then, it seems, there was a bachelor,
Whose meals of beans and eggs had lost their flavor.
This time he got a wife he thought,
Martha Epp was the girl he sought.
She became his wedded wife,
To love and cherish through their life.
The wedding was at the home of the bride,
And as they stood there side by side.
Mother's wedding dress was of lavender hue,
The day Father and Mother said "I do",
1931 was the Year, why should they wait,
So June Nine was the wedding date.
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]